

PRESS RELEASE

New planning material for profine partners and architects

Extensive updated planning material is now available for the KBE, Kömmerling, and Trocal brand profile systems.

These materials each contain the new planning manual "Windows – Doors – Roller shutters" (a ring binder divided into fifteen registers) and a CD with various user friendly program modules for tenders and structural properties.

The high quality planning folders contain all of the product details, profile surveys, and engineering drawings for each profile system, including the high thermal insulation 88 mm systems, and the details and rules for their structural properties.

The special features on the planning CD include e.g. program modules for generating CAD profile sections and building connectors as well as routines for calculating insulation values, isotherms, and wind loads. Also included is user friendly project administration software for generating the complete set of tendering documents including their regulations.

"The new programs fulfil all of the market requirements and the latest standards. With these, the manufacturer will find it considerably easier to plan his projects with our products, and contract awarding offices will receive reliable support in handling their projects," explained Peter Jansig, responsible for profine project management.

profine Group partners can access the planning material online on the password protected extranet of the KBE, Kömmerling, and Trocal brands. There they can download the planning CD together with a module for automatic updates.

The planning portfolio and CD can also be obtained from the profine Competence Centre. Simply call +49 6331 56-1520 or visit www.profine-kompetenzcenter.de
